SENATE CALLS FOR ROTC RESTRUCTURING

By TOM BREWER

The UPS Academic Senate has finally passed the report of the ad hoc committee to study this University's ROTC program. At its meeting last Tuesday, the Senate approved, intact, the entire report.

The ad hoc committee, made up of five faculty members and three students studied two questions; First, to determine the place, if there is one, in the liberal arts university for the ROTC, and second, to determine what academic credit should be given for ROTC courses.

Four recommendations were made and approved. They are:

1). Existing non-military academic departments should offer the courses necessary to the

Dr. John W. Prins, professor of business administration at UPS, widely known Tacoma life-insurance executive, and civic leader, will present the annual Register Lecture at 8 p.m., November 18, in Jones Hall Auditorium.

Prins' lecture, "The Nationality of Jan van Friesland," is based on his life and will be a sketch for a possible book.

Under the van Friesland pen name, Dr. Prins wrote a column for the TACOMA NEWS TRIBUNE during World War II.

In discussing his life, Prins commented:

I lived all over the world and in a couple of wars, when most people on the campus weren't even born yet.

It so happens by more or less fortuitous circumstances I have had a rather interesting experience.

I was in Moscow during the revolution, the Bolshevik revolution. That was 52 years ago.

Prins went on to explain that he wasn't in Moscow to take part in the revolution. He left the city as soon as the revolution was over. From Moscow he went to Siberia to do

SEATTLE EIGHT TRIAL

Coalition Plans Rallies, Picketing

A new coalition of Tacoma Youth calling itself The Seattle Eight Coordinating Committee of Tacoma has planned picketing and rallies Nov. 16th to protest the Seattle Eight conspiracy trial.

The committee consists of various members of the Resistance, TCC, PLU and UPS and the various collectives in the Tacoma area.

Spokesmen for the committee stated they hope to have a peaceful demonstration to both show support for the Seattle Eight and educate the workers in the area as to the political implications of the trial.

The tentative schedule calls for all day picketing to begin at 9:00 am. in front of the Federal Court House.

Mass rallies are scheduled at 12:00 and 4:00 with various national and local speakers tentatively scheduled, including Dave Dillinger, defendant in the Chicago Conspiracy Trial, and long time leader in the pacifist movement; Denise Oliver of the Young Lords a group dealing with the problems of Spanish Harlem, and the sister of Angela Davis.

Local speakers tentatively scheduled to participate include Rick Silverman, University of Washington student body president, Ramona Bennet, of the Puyallup Indians and members of the conspiracy and their attorneys.

TEACH-IN FEATURES TIGAR

By HOWARD PARKER

A teach-in on political oppression and repression has been scheduled for this evening at 7:30 pm in the upstairs lounge of the student union building.

Mike Tigar, UCLA professor and nationally known lawyer serving as chief counsel for the Seattle Eight, will speak along with members of the Seattle Eight and representatives from numerous other parts of the "movement".

Various national figures expected for the Monday rally heralding the opening of the trial are tentatively scheduled for the Friday teach-in.

Denise Oliver from New York is a member of the "Young Lords", a Puerto Rican third world group with Black Panther ideology. She is expected, according to Terry Slatten, along with the sister of Angela Davis, former UCLA philosophy professor and an avowed communist. Miss Davis was arrested in connection with the abduction and slaying of a California judge.

Dave Dellinger of the Chicago 8 will possibly appear this evening before his scheduled arrival on Monday; according to teach-in organizers.

Terry Slatten, spokesman for the group of students planning the teach-in on repression and oppression, stated, "The event is

Central Board Denies Funds For Dinner

By GREG BREWIS

Central Board voted last Tuesday to sustain the decision of the Finance Committee concerning their refusal to authorize funds for the recent Homecoming Dinner.

The Homecoming Committee, as reported in last week's TRAIL, went out on the town for a post-Homecoming dinner.

The Finance Committee Chairman, Brian A. Thompson, attempted to slide by the controversial issue at the Tuesday night meeting by failing to report the decision reached at a recent Finance Committee meeting. Earlier in the week, the voting members of Central Board had Dean J. Maxson Reeves revealed Tuesday that Dr. R. Franklin Thompson, UPS President, had received a letter from Fort Lewis officials requesting that English Professor LeRoy Annis be barred from teaching during the next term of the UPS extension program at the Fort.

Reeves had no comment other than that the matter was being taken under advisement. He explained, "We don't know what we are going to do...We haven't arrived at any decision about what course we're going to take."

Reeves refused to release the text of the letter stateng, "The letter is directed towards Dr. Thompson. It is his letter and is not releaseable by me."

At press time, Dr. Thompson had also refused to release the letter. Reeves outlined the present situation:

"Professor Annis's name is on the preliminary list of those professors who will teach at the Fort...The plans right along since the first of the year have been for him to teach out there."

However, he qualified that in saying, "At this time no final arrangements have been made for Professor Annis to be teaching at Fort Lewis." No faculty member has yet signed a contract for the term that begins around January 15.

Reeves had no response to the question of whether he envisioned any future correspondence with Fort Lewis on the matter.

LeROY ANNIS, English professor seeking to teach at the UPS extension program at Ft. Lewis, here invites Dean of the University J. Maxson Reeves to play volleyball with members of the faculty at one of their frequent games in the women's gym. The invitation came after a meeting between the two in which they discussed a letter from Ft. Lewis requesting that Annis not teach at the Fort.

Faculty Tries Administration Elimination

By GREG BREWIS

The full faculty of the University will meet Monday at 4:00 pm in Mc 106. Revision of the Faculty By-Laws will be the central concern of the gathered educators.

The meeting promises to be a hot one. Some members of the faculty are proposing to restructure the Faculty Senate, the legislative body of the faculty. If their proposed by-law revision is passed, the administrative members of the Senate, which have been

Conspirators Face Hardship, Repression

Due to the work of many fellow conspirators, we eventually enlightened our brothers and sisters and began to reform our lives. We strove to live a life of love and understanding. It was difficult, however as we were continually scoffed by a silent majority of citizens determined to maintain the status quo.

Our leaders were ordered to follow the law of the land or be silent. Many of the poor were harassed by agents and spies. The courts seemed to have little concern with the maintenance of justice. We were truly persecuted with patience for many years.

We could not continue long in this manner. We were hunted and harried on every side. We were also determined. We continued to meet and plan even while we were forced to keep the place of our meetings secret.

Eventually, the inevitable happened: some of us were taken and clapped into prison; our homes were staked out and watched day and night; we were being molested. We saw that there was no hope.

After weighing the hardships which would surely be encountered against the repression we had suffered under for so many years, we decided we must stop talking and begin acting.

been informed to the decision by mail.

Al Rinaldo, Homecoming Committee Co-Chairman, questioned this tactic and Central Board agreed with Rinaldo's right to a fair hearing. The orders of the day were suspended and the issue was openly discussed.

After a lengthy and heated discussion, Maila Putnam, Delegate-at-Large, moved that Central Board allocate $90.00 to the Homecoming Committee to pay for the dinner. The question was called and resoundingly defeated by a vote of 2 to 14. Stu Soren, IFC Representative, and Fred Bullert, Men's Off-Campus Representative, cast the affirmative votes.

The University account of Homecoming Co-Chairwoman Lucy DeYoung will be charged with the dinner expense.

De Young Forced To Pay

Lucy DeYoung
Chairwoman, 1970 Homecoming

Dear Lucy,

On Thursday, November 5th, the Finance Committee of Central Board met to discuss the 1970 Homecoming committee budget and expenditures. Needless to say, the committee should be commended for staying within their budget. As you well know, last year's committee went almost $1,000.00 over their allotted budget and we were desperately trying to make sure there was no recurrence of that mishandling. Within this situation, last year, the mishandling was not just an overall lack of responsibility, but included specific areas where monies were misspent.

This year, the Finance Committee made it very clear throughout the planning of Homecoming that the monies allotted were not to be spent in certain areas, whether money was spent in those areas in the past or not.

In dealing with your committee's specific expenditures, the amount of $90.25 for the dinner for the chairmen and their dates comes under the situation of money spent where we specifically stated it was not to be spent.

Lucy, a number of times before the Homecoming Committee was even assembled and after they were working it was made clear that spending money for a dinner for the committee was strictly forbidden. Tom specifically stated that a number of times both to you and Al as well as to Central Board itself.

The idea behind ASB funds is not for the pleasure or enjoyment of hard-working people, but rather for the benefit of organized groups, the student body, and university community as a whole. A case in point is the Delegates at Large. These three individuals work full time, year round for the student body and get nothing in the form of repayment. In our opinion, they deserve a dinner with dates much more than does a small committee that worked, and worked hard, for a few weeks.

Student activity work should be, and is a voluntary service and the and the funds students pay each year should go to bettering those activities—not to rewarding the people planning them.

Whether a dinner has been held in the past or not is of no importance or reasoning here. What is important is that you were told that this was not to happen and you did it anyway.

Therefore, Finance Committee has decided that your hand should not be slapped and then state that it will not happen again. We have no control over last year and no concern over last year or preceding years in this connection. Instead we have decided not to pay any bills that occurred because of that dinner held and that the amount of the bill will be charged to your University account.

As chairman of the committee and the person who signed the check you are responsible for the bill and it will be up to you to collect from those present.

We feel very strongly about this and we realize that you have been around and involved enough to know that you were going against set policies before you acted. There, we believe that our action is the only logical and sound handling of this situation that can occur.

Sincerely,
Tom Leavitt

CHIEF SEATTLE MOURNS PASSING OF GREATNESS

There was a time when our people covered the land as the waves of a wind-ruffled sea cover its shell paved floor, but that time long since passed away with the greatness of the tribes that are now but a mournful memory. I will not dwell on nor mourn over, our untimely decay, nor reproach my paleface brothers with hastening it, as we too may have been somewhat to blame.

Youth is impulsive. When our young men grow angry at some real or imaginary wrong and disfigure their faces with black paint, it denotes that their hearts are black, and that they often are cruel and restless, and our old men and women are unable to restrain them. Thus it has ever been. Thus it was when the white man first began to push our forefathers ever westward. But let us hope that the hostilities between us may never return. We would have everything to lose and nothing to gain. Revenge by young men is considered gain, even at the cost of their own lives, but old men who stay at home at times of war, and mothers who have sons to lose, know better.

Our Good Father

Our good father at Wahington—for I presume he is now our father as well as yours, since King George moved his boundaries further north—our great and good father, I say, sends word that if we do as he desires he will protect us. His brave warriors will be to us a bristling wall of strength, and his wonderful ships of war will fill our harbors so that our ancient enemies far to the northward—the Haidas and the Tsimpsons, will cease to frighten our women, children, and old men. Then in reality, will he be our father and we his children.

But can that ever be? Your God is not our God! Your God loves your people and hates mine.

He folds his strong protecting arms lovingly about the paleface and leads him by the hand as a father leads his infant son—but He has forsaken his red children—if they are really his. Your God makes your people wax strong every day. Soon they will fill all the land. Our people are ebbing away like a rapidly receding tide that will never return. The white man's God cannot love our people or He would protect them.

Nowhere for help

They seem to be orphans who can look nowhere for help. How then can we be brothers? How can your God become our God and renew our prosperity and awaken in us dreams of returning greatness? If we have a common heavenly father He must be partial—for He came to His paleface children. We never saw Him. He gave you laws but had no word for His red children whose teeming multitudes once filled this vast continent as stars fill the firmament. No, we are two distinct races with separate origins and separate destinies. There is little in common between us.

Ashes of Ancestors

To us the ashes of our ancestors are sacred and their resting place is hallowed ground. You wander far from the graves of your ancestors and seemingly without regret. Your religion was written upon tables of stone by the iron finger of your God so that you could not forget. The Red Man could never comprehend nor remember it. Our religion is the traditions of our ancestors—the dreams of our old men, given to them in the solemn hours of the night by the Great Spirit; and the visions of our sachems, and is written in the hearts of the people.

Your dead cease to love you and the land of their nativity as soon as they pass the portals of the tomb and wander way beyond the stars. They are soon forgotten and never return. Our dead never forget the beautiful world that gave them being. They still love its verdant valleys, its murmuring rivers, its magnificent mountains, sequestered vales and verdant lined lakes and bays, and ever yearn in tender, fond affection over the lonely-hearted living, and often return from the Happy Hunting Ground to visit, guide, console and comfort them.

Morning Mist

Day and night cannot dwell together. The Red Man has ever fled the approach of the White Man, as the morning mist flees before the morning

During World War II he was in the admiralty in London and after the Normandy invasion was in charge of the underground in Holland.

Since joining the UPS staff in 1955, he has served as co-director of the UPS school of business administration and economics on three occasions. Besides teaching at UPS, the professor emeritus has taught at the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Washington.

Dr. Prins studied at the University of Leiden in Holland and the University of Washington where he received his J.D. and A.M. degrees.

Following World War II, Dr. Prins directed international transportation for the Allies in the Netherlands. Before entering the life insurance field, he was in business in Indonesia.

The fifth annual Regester Lecture honors Dr. John D. Regester, professor emeritus of philosophy at UPS who wrote the first book on the works of Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

Speakers who have been lined up include representatives from the People's Constitutional Convention, Tim Determan from the United Farm Workers, representatives from Survival for the American Indians, Tom Leavitt of ASUPS, and Rick Silverman, president of the ASUW.

Terry Slatten emphasized that the Seattle Eight would not be speaking on "just on the Seattle thing". Their topics will range from Bobby Seale, Kent State, to the Chicago trial and the affair of the Soledad brothers.

Slatten explained that "This is not a rally to get people charged

"People need input. It is very vital to rationally sit down and learn about events."

He explained, "The teach-in was vital as an instrument in the anti-war and civil rights movements. We feel this structure can be used to advantage in getting information out to people."

"The reason the event is scheduled in the evening is to enable people from the community to attend. It is crucial for everyone to be informed."

appointed by the President in the past, will be subject to election by the faculty. Therefore all Senate seats will be elected positions excepting the Dean of the University who will be a permanent member of the Senate.

There seems to be some opposition developing from the administration, however. It appears that Dr. Thompson will take a leading role in preserving his administrative appointments to the Senate. Thompson believes that the elimination of administrative representation will detract from the depth of the Senate.

Some faculty members, however, feel that the scope of influence of the Senate is being reduced as the University Council becomes more effective. Therefore, say some, the Senate is no longer required to have the depth that was necessary in pre-council years.

15,800,000 COLLEGE STUDENTS CAN'T BE WRONG

By conservative estimate more than fifteen million college students have used Cliff's Notes since we became America's first literary study aid. This preference continues to build — for two big reasons:

1 / QUALITY — The easy-to-understand commentary and explanation you get from Cliff's Notes result from painstaking work by our board of authors. Predominantly Ph.D.'s, these scholars are specially selected for their knowledge of particular works and for their ability to make these works meaningful to you.

2 / AVAILABILITY — Cliff's Notes concentrate on giving you all the plays and novels most frequently assigned in college. If your dealer is temporarily out of the title you need, ask him to call us on his special "Hot Line."

HUELGISTAS (strikers) are seen marching in the eastern Fillmore district of San Francisco. Five busses brought 300 farmworkers from Salinas two days after Cesar Chavez called for the boycott. Note the union label on the sign of the marcher farthest to the left.

Lettuce Workers Unite In Seeking Own Union

On July 23, 1970 as victory drew near in the grape struggle Cesar Chavez of the AFL-CIO United Farmworkers Union sent a telegram to lettuce growers in the Salinas valley asking them to hold union representation elections.

On July 28 no elections had been held and the Salinas growers announced that the Teamster Union represented their workers. Santa Maria and Imperial Valley growers subsequently followed suit, as workers read about the settlements in the newspaper.

So begins another chapter in the struggle of the American farm worker for reasonable working conditions and a wage scale that can provide a decent standard of living.

On August 11 the Teamsters signed a jurisdictional agreement in where they agreed to honor traditional Teamster jurisdiction (truck drivers and frozen food plants.) The union agreed to respect the right of field workers to build their own union.

However, most growers refused to release the Teamsters from their contracts. The United Farm Workers were not willing to settle for as little as the Teamsters had.

On August 24, 1970 massive strikes began in Salinas Valley and Santa Maria. Five to seven thousand workers were involved.

The growers admitted a 2/3 reduction in production.

August 30 a union representation election supervised by the Catholic Bishops Committee demonstrated that workers wanted the UFWOC. United Fruit (Inter Harvest) signed a contract with UFWOC that included $2.10 per hour, pesticide clauses, and other benefits.

A company spokesman stated, "The teamsters have our contracts but UFWOC has our workers."

September 4 Purex (Freshpick) signed and all Salinas area strawberry growers except the largest, Pic 'n Pac signed.

September 9 Delfino Farms signed with UFWOC and Delfino commented, "I have 60 workers and all 60 went on strike."

On September 17, after the UFWOC had organized fields accounting for 20% of the California-Arizona lettuce production, Judge Anthony Brazil issued a permanent injunction against all UFWOC strike activity in the Salinas area.

Strikes over which union has jurisdiction are illegal under federal law and at the same time no appeal to the National Labor Relation Board is allowed to farm workers because they are not covered under it.

Cesar Chavez on the same day the injunction came out announced a nationwide boycott of non-union lettuce grown in California-Arizona. Lettuce from this area accounts for 85% of the nation's production.

The California Migrant Ministry explains the significance of the boycott.

"Farm workers in Salinas - like poor oppressed people around the world - are engaged in a basic self-determination struggle. They want organized strength in a union that is close to them and is responsive to their needs and their hopes."

"They want a leader they can trust. They believe in Cesar Chavez and the United Farm Workers. Why should they be denied the union of their choice?"

Tim Determan, a farmworker from Salinas, is working locally in support of the boycott of non-Farm worker lettuce. He explains that 15 full-time people will be working out of a Seattle office serving the entire Puget Sound region.

He urges people to ask their grocer to see if the lettuce he receives from California-Arizona bears the United Farmworker union label.

However, Tim points out, "Most of the lettuce available in the stores will be local lettuce until the middle of the month when the local supply runs out."

University Chapel Presents Art

The University Chapel Committee continues its semester's theme on "Art as Faithful Communication" as it presents the film on Kinetic Art. The film centers around a piece of sculpture by Jean Tinguely a contemporary sculptor who puts together great masses of wheels and gears, bicycle parts, levers, which move together at the whim and design of the artist. These great machines provide a strange and profound condemnation of a culture that has turned itself into a mechanism that moves more and more rapidly, but which seems to gain little ground in terms of depth and development.

Tinguely was commissioned to do a work for a New York Museum a couple of years ago. The work was announced as "Homage to New York City", and the gallery was crowded when the piece was unveiled. The piece was unveiled, turned on and the sculpture systematically and pedantically destroyed itself.

The film offers the opening and the viewing, and the only viewing, of the piece called "Homage to New York City". The film will be followed by a discussion on the meaning and function of Kinetic art and its use in communicating faith in man's ability to live together as common

USIU CHOPS LOGGERS 31-13

By PAT LYLE

UPS dominated the first two quarters, leading 7-0 at the half, but when the Loggers fell asleep in the second half, the Westerners didn't waste any time in turning the game into a rout. At the time of the USIU onslaught, the Loggers led 7-3, USIU's Bobby Fultz recovered a kickoff after the UPS return men let the ball roll past them into the end zone. Dale Curtis, who had, previous to the kickoff booted a record setting 51 yard field goal, added the extra point. Before the gasping Loggers could shut the door, the game was over.

The Westerners scored twice more in the third quarter on Doug Omer's 30 yard run, and on a 19 yard pass from Omer to Dave Woelke which put the game out of reach for the struggling Loggers.

UPS did come up with 13 points: 7 in the first quarter on a 57 yard scamper by Sophomore fullback Doug Boughal, and 6 more in the third quarter when Boughal broke away again. This time for 62 yards and a score. Randy McDonald added the first quarter extra point. Boughal totaled 135 yards and averaged 13.5 per carry for UPS.

The scoring ended in anticlimax with the Westerners running for another TD from 8 yards out.

Logger flanker Bill Hecker was held scoreless for the first time in 7 games, but did manage to pull in 4 passes for 30 yards.

Tomorrow night the Loggers will be in Vancouver B.C. for their 8 pm tilt with the rugged and offense minded Simon Fraser clansmen. The Loggers, with a 4-4 won-lost record will be out to prove they are indeed a better than average team. Although the clansmen are undefeated, their schedule has not been nearly as tough as the Loggers and the Loggers should be an even or better bet to win the tilt.

PIZZA "HUSTLER" WANTED

Around the campus, Pizza Haven drivers have long been noted for their hustle. This is appreciated by our customers who demand quick service and hot pizza. However, the Police Department is getting tired of hearing, "But officer, I have three pepperoni specials to deliver and an order of fried chicken waiting back at the store."

In other words, our delivery business has grown to the extent that we need help, especially on campus.

Therefore, Pizza Haven is now recruiting Pizza Haven 'Hustlers' to help us coordinate our deliveries. We will pay a limited number of certain reliable students, as independent businessmen, to hustle pizza. If you are interested in making a few bucks a day by assisting Pizza Haven in delivering hot pizzas, come into the store for more information.

AT ODDS WITH CARLOS

By CARLOS BERGERREZ

(Author's note: This initial article on my background marks my entrance on the TRIAL staff as a variety columnist hired to alleviate the doldrums of regular sports reporting. My name is CARLOS BERGERREZ.)

Hola. Directly after arriving at UPS from the Southwestern segment of these United States I became very interested in occupying my time with the TRAIL publication. This was after the Tattler sent me away. But isn't that what it's all about? You know, involvement and participation.

My background, was the type that steered me into the field of mass media. At age seven I acquired a paper route in Del Norte, a small settlement in Southwestern Colorado. (Just east of Cortez and south of Saguache). At Christmas time I sold magazine subscriptions, and, in the sixth grade, I had my first experience with a ditto machine. (It was very fulfilling).

There were eight in my family: My father, Papa, my mother, Mama, my brothers Paco, Pancho, Pepito, and Lindsay and my burro Stuart. Papa was an illiterate migrant worker in the San Luis Valley, specializing in the fields of Jeff Collier, picking peaches, oranges and potatoes. Mama worked parttime at Shakey's while my brothers and I worked seldom.

Myself, awed by influence and charisma of Perry White, chose newsmaking as my career for life. Within three days, I was making news! I, with Paco, got caught stealing watermelons near Rocky ford. Inside the County Jail, I started my first newspaper. This endeavor was shortlived however because we soon ran out of toilet paper.

After completing a correspondance course for my secondary school diploma, I applied to UPS, choosing Washington, because I'd never picked apples before.

That's my past. However uneventfull it seems to you, the reader, it is no distortion. It really was that big of a bore.

But my basic goal on the TRAIL staff is not to write my memoirs, but rather to step out on a limb and make funky comments on a usually dismal sports scene. This week the action was a cop-out. Negative results were commonplace, such as Archie Manning's crinkled left arm, the KO of Nino of Rome, Sonny's vain attempts to postpone the rose crop at Stanford, and, of course, the Loggers standard out-of-town performance. One closing prediction: Cousin Oscar Bonavena over Ali in 13. Odds 1-4 pesos.

Adios.

This is not just a young man's fancy.

Anything but.

A young man can climb into this incredible piece of hardware and break the sound barrier. And the awe-inspiring probes into space are not figments of his wild imagination. Now in a space suit he explores the outer reaches of the beyond. It all started with imagination and dreams. If anything, a young man's fancy is exactly what we need. Without it we'd all still be on the ground.

Roving Revolutionaries

Chris Rideout and Norman Eder

With the impending trial of the Seattle 8 and the ever present dilemma of the local Indians, the UPS student body has been bitterly criticized for a lack of concern and seemingly dismal support of these vital issues.

A casual observer coming to our campus for the first time might very well think the youth culture and its accompanying conspiracy has passed by the school. Influenced by preconceptions of a quiet scholastic environment, a visitor could quite possibly leave our community with the wrong ideas about UPS.

As the journalistic representatives of the student body we cannot allow this supposition to stand as truth. The reality of our campus can only be discovered by spending some time with the students rather than listening to the ageless stories told by some administrators. Truly our school is a seething hotbed of revolutionary thought and action. One needs only to know where to look.

The outward signs present on campus are merely a gigantic hoax being used by the students to present a contented appearance.

Beads, bellbottoms, and peace signs are the insignia of the UPS radicals. A countersign to establish ones political compatriots on campus. An increase of these items have been noticed on a surprising number of young men and coeds alike. These symbols of the youthful revolt are obviously well entrenched on our campus.

The sight of beads around dainty necks are only obscured by fraternal pins and cashmere sweaters. Nevertheless these outward signs of affluence are only part of the ruse being used to confuse the establishment.

Some of the most cherished organizations on campus are being quietly and secretly subverted by the forces once held at bay. One such action was recently announced by a traditionalist conglomerate of several interests on campus. The organization stated it was going to become more relevant to the campus. We all know what this could mean to the structure of the school.

To reach their goal a secret meeting was held under the guise of a "Stag Film Festival". Only the most daring of speculators even questioned the type of revolutionary zeal that took place at this gathering. Who knows what traditional values succumbed.

This year it has become customary for the radical students to meet on Tuesday nights to practice the occult and drink of the Brew of Revolution.

These mass celebrations of revolt are followed on Wed. nights by the Free "U" which is implemented to seduce the innocent.

All over campus the reflection of the concern of the UPS student is displayed by their involvement in the small group sessions held on the University grounds. The forest atmosphere in which they are held seem to point out the concern for the environment our students show.

Many more trends of radical thought and action can be pointed out to the persons unaware of our total campus commitment to the ideas which are sweeping the nation. The Radicalization of the campus is indicative of the mood of many students and faculty.

Any further accusations of solitude and apathy on this campus should indeed incur the wrath of our students. Let's all help to put those misconceptions where they belong, "The nearest dippy dumpster".

Carry on UPS.

RED CHINA EXPLORED

Robert B. Ekvall, internationally known China expert, will speak on "Open Door to Red China?" at 8:00 pm, Tuesday, November 17 in McIntyre Hall under the sponsorship of the Academic Lectures Committee of the Associated Students of the University of Puget Sound, Wesley Jordan, ALC Chairman, announced today.

Ekvall, author of 14 books and 40 articles on China and Tibet, has been a translator for American and Chinese diplomats. He authored "Faithful Echo," a book on his experiences at Asian and Indochina conferences in Geneva, Switzerland, in 1954, at the Sino-American Talks in 1955-1957, and with Ambassador Dean at Panmunjom, Korea.

Born in Minchow, Kansu, China, he served there as a missionary and later with General A.C. Wedermeyer as an Intelligence Officer in Chungking, headquarters of the China Theater of Operations. Earlier the speaker was on General Joseph Stillwell's staff in Burma during World War II. Subsequently he was an attache at the American Embassy in Paris. Now engaged in research and writing, Ekvall is a member of the Royal Geographic Society, Association of American Anthropologists, and the Association for Asian Studies. He is a research associate in the Department of Anthropology, University of Washington. Ekvall fluently speaks Chinese, Tibetan, French, and German. Jitendra Shah, UPS student, has been named Special Event Chairman for the Ekvall lecture, Jordan said.

The guest speaker will answer questions following his presentation, which is open to the public at no charge.

Kittredge Display

By SARAH COMBS
Arts & Entertainment Editor

The current Kittredge Art Gallery display, Southwest Washington Artists, proves that a good artist is a rare thing and most people who try to be one don't get beyond the level of a pleasing competence.

The show contains the usual run of semi-amateur artwork, with only a minority of works showing enough individual fire to catch my eye.

Batiks are becoming a more popular technique daily; there were a number of very fine examples. One, by Annetje Claringbould, was a large, bold, turquoise-white-green creation called "Plant Form". Having seen the thing in the artist's home, it was a pleasure to have it jump out at me from the gallery wall, still striking with its Queen-Anne's lace design.

"Wives" Lacked Depth

By PENNY LANE

University Theatre's comical production, SCHOOL FOR WIVES made a frantic debut Nov. 5, 1970. Once again, set designer T. Somerville made an excellent show of his creativity through the attractive, yet functional, set. The elaborate costuming and period music enhanced what seemed to be a repetitious, tedious and uncreative play.

Probably the best performances were by Becky Harris and Bernie Dunayski. Becky showed her versatility as the naive, uneducated Agnes. Bernie did a superb job in being the typical, foppish French gentleman, as evidenced by the well polished mannerisms (walk, speech, etc.). Both Becky and Bernie interacted with the characters on stage, while the balance of the cast played only to the audience and solely for laughs. Becky and Bernie did not rely on past characterizations -- unfortunately, other actors did not express this individuality.

Steve Anderson seems to have been 'type cast' in the role of the love sick young man. The similarity of the missed knock and the missed stab (FORUM) was typical of the interpretation of the role. At times, Steve even seemed to use the cleft palate used in FLEA.

Roger Tompkins also seems to have either fallen into or has been placed into the same type of role that he has always played. Arnolphe was supposed to be a man of about 50, however Roger's characterization did not show this. Tompkins was constantly jumping on and running around furniture -- actions appropo for Pseudolus in FORUM but not for a 50 year old French gentleman. Tompkins also must feel that yelling and stomping around the stage will make a line funny, for he does this throughout the entire play. These actions, however, only tend to obscure the lines and aggravate the audience because of the tremendous noise.

As for the balance of the actors, most seemed to recite lines without any depth of understanding of the characters. Also, these people suffered from exceptionally poor make-up jobs, which hindered the audience in picturization of the characters.

Buck Christmas Consumption

THE GREAT AMERICAN CRISIS, OUR ETHIC OF CONSUMPTION, is the theme that the University Church Committee will attempt to investigate during the next several months. A series of films, programs, and discussions, will center around the future of a culture that is aimed towards ever increasing consumption. There are voices of our culture that are claiming that our over production and over consumption will soon result in the death of our culture. Several programs will attempt to deal with that very question.

THE AMERICAN ETHIC OF CONSUMPTION will be discussed by Dr. William Campbell, Dr. Daniel Kelleher and Chaplain Jeffrey Smith on Thursday evening November 19 at 7:30 pm. These three men will discuss their views on the future of a culture aimed at maximum output, minimum unemployment, and abundance.

During the two weeks prior to Christmas Vacation, the University Church committee urges you to buck the Christmas ethic of consumption by participating in a series of workshops in the basement of Kilworth Chapel on evenings between November 30 and December 15. We will be printing our own Christmas Cards, doing copper, enamel ware, macrame, tie-dyeing, weaving, wall hangings and other really beautiful gifts. (Students will expect to pay only for the material used. Equipment will be there ready for you.)

The height of technological ingenuity will be questioned on the evening of December 3 as the film "Hiroshima and Nagasaki" is presented. This film taken during the bombing of the two Japanese cities, was photographed by Japanese newsmen on the spot. It was confiscated by the United States government and kept in security until 1969 when it was released through Columbia University and the Museum of Modern Art in New York City. It is a horrible and profound film and one is urged to remember that the bombs that we now have in our atomic stockpile are twenty-five hundred times more powerful than the ones we dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. The film will be shown at 7:30 pm in Kilworth Chapel basement.

"America on the Edge Of Abundance", a film that predicts the death of our culture through over consumption will be offered on February 11 in the Chapel basement at 7:30 pm.

STRETTTCCCHHHH!!!

Viewing the production as a whole, SCHOOL FOR WIVES is a shallow, tedious bedroom 'comedy'. There is little variation in pace as there is only ONE pace -- frantic. Gaps were especially evident in the third act and were often caused by the blocking -- i.e. pushing people off stage, running around the trellis and the constant running in circles. All in all the production lacks creativity and depth.

In the final act, Chrystalde states "The only thing wrong with you is this obsessing fear of being deceived, of being made a fool of...". The Drama Department would be deceiving itself should they think WIVES as anything more than an adequate production. They would make fools of themselves if they continue in such an uncreative pattern.

Chief Foresees Dark Night

It matters little where we pass the remnant of our days. They will not be many. The Indian's night promises to be dark. Not a single star of hope hovers above his horizon. Sad-voiced winds moan in the distance. Grim fate seems to be on the Red Man's trail, and wherever he goes he will hear the approaching footsteps of his fell destroyer and prepare stolidly to meet his doom, as does the wounded doe that hears approaching footsteps of the hunter.

A few more moons. A few more winters—and not one of the descendants of the mighty hosts that once moved over this broad land or lived in happy homes, protected by the Great Spirit, will remain to mourn over the graves of a people—once more powerful and hopeful than yours.

But why should I mourn at the untimely fate of my people? Tribe follows tribe, and nation follows nation, like the waves of the sea. It is the order of nature and regret is useless. Your time of decay may be distant, but it will surely come, for even the White Man whose God walked and talked with him as friend with friend cannot be exempt from the common destiny. We may be brothers after all. We will see.

We will ponder your propositions and when we decide we will let you know. But should we accept it, I here and now make this condition that we will not be denied the privilege, without molestation, of visiting at any time, the tombs of ancestors, friends, and children. Every part of this soil is sacred in the estimation of my people. Every hillside, every valley, every plain and grove, has been hallowed by some sad or happy event in the days long vanished. Even the rocks, which seem to be dumb and dead as they swelter in the sun along the silent shore, thrill with memories of stirring events connected with the lives of my people and the very dust upon which you now stand responds more lovingly to their footsteps than to yours, because it is rich with the blood of our ancestors and our bare feet are conscious of the sympathetic touch.

And when the last Red Man shall have perished, and the memory of my tribe shall have become a myth among the White Men, these shores will swarm with the invisible dead of my tribe, and when your children's children think themselves alone in the field, the store, the shop, the highway, or in the silence of the pathless woods, they will not be alone. In all the earth there is no place dedicated to solitude. At night when the streets of your cities and villages are silent and you think them deserted, they will throng with the returning hosts that once filled them and still love this beautiful land. The White Man will never be alone.

Our departed braves, fond mothers, glad, happy-hearted maidens, and even the little children who lived here and rejoiced here for a brief season, will love these somber solitudes and at eventide they greet shadowy returning spirits.

Let him be just and deal kindly with my people, for the dead are not powerless. Dead, did I say? There is no death, only a change of worlds.

Faculty Misses Quorum

By R. F. Tee

Well, folks, the faculty really got it together in their FULL FACULTY meeting, Thursday, November 5.....In fact, they got it together so much that only 60 out of 185 faculty members showed up.

Since there wasn't a quorum, the meeting was rescheduled for Monday, November 16, at 4:00 in McIntyre 106.

They then went on to general announcements. Mrs. Regina Glenn, bookstore manager, spoke of the problems the bookstore has been having on book orders. She requested that all orders be typed in the future and not handwritten.

It was also announced that the fire department regulations require fire drills twice a month in academic buildings....Therefore-be prepared to face the cold, cruel world outside.

Tune in next Monday, same time, same place, for another exciting episode in the FULL Faculty. (Come if you can, maybe we can get a quorum of students at least.)

One college does more than broaden horizons. It sails to them, and beyond.

Now there's a way for you to know the world around you first-hand. A way to see the things you've read about, and study as you go. The way is a college that uses the Parthenon as a classroom for a lecture on Greece, and illustrates Hong Kong's floating societies with a ride on a harbor sampan. Chapman College's World Campus Afloat enrolls two groups of 500 students every year and opens up the world for them. Your campus is the s.s. Ryndam, equipped with modern educational facilities and a fine faculty. You have a complete study curriculum as you go. And earn a fully-accredited semester while at sea.

Chapman College is now accepting enrollments for Spring and Fall '71 semesters. Spring semesters circle the world from Los Angeles, stopping in Asia and Africa and ending in New York. Fall semesters depart New York for port stops in Europe, Africa and Latin America, ending in Los Angeles.

The world is there. The way to show it to inquiring minds is there. And financial aid programs are there, too. Send for our catalog with the coupon below.
